

Classified Advertising

If you want to buy, sell, swap, rent or lease in this column, write to: John Brown, West Elba, near depot, 424

NOTICE—I have a nice load of mules. See them before you buy. John Brown, West Elba, near depot, 424

FOR SALE—Stewart and Mahan Pecan trees, and all other Nursery Stock, will be in Elba each Monday. See or write T. Q. Richardson, Kingston, Ala. 424

STRAYED—4 hogs at my home about 7 miles from Elba on Brantley-Curtis Pike. Owner can get them by paying expenses and damage. Glen Mills, d 10

FOR RENT—to man with stock, new way on halves, 3-horse farm; 2 good houses, 2 good barns, good pastures; 5 miles from Elba on Victoria road. J. M. Elmore, Rt. 1, Elba, Ala. d 10 17

LOST COW—Black with white spots, extra long horns and tag in right ear; last seen at Clark Hill Friday A. M. Notify Gordon Cain, Rt. 1, Elba, Ala. d 10 17

WANTED—Good road cart, or two good, with wheels with axle and nuts. Wheels should be 36 in. diameter; will consider anything between 30 and 42 in.; Write The Elba Clipper, stating size and price. Go to Church Sunday! d 10-17 go-pd

ELBA GIRLS WILL SING IN CHRISTMAS CHOR

The annual Christmas concert at Judson College is being presented in the College auditorium December 14. Featured on the concert program, which is under the direction of Prof. Clifford Cook, will be the capella choir, the College string ensemble, and the college band. Miss Irene Jordan, contralto vocalist, and Miss Lucile Wagner, piano, will be featured in the two piano selections.

Appearing in the Christmas Concert with the capella choir are Catherine and Jeanne Brunson, Elba students at Judson. Jeanne Brunson also is piano accompanist for the String Ensemble in playing Corelli's Christmas Concerto. The choir this year, which is directed by Miss Irene Jordan, is singing a group of Christmas carols from all European countries.

Lamar Brunson, son of Mrs. Kate Brunson, of Elba, has enlisted in the Navy and was sworn in at Birmingham Monday. He has gone to San Diego, California for training.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Circuit Court of Coffee County, Alabama, in Equity, at Elba, Charles Allen Snell, Complainant, VS. Beattie Mae Snell, Respondent.

TO HESSIE MAR SNELL: Take notice that there has been a bill of complaint filed in this Court against you by Charlie Allen Snell in which he seeks a divorce. You are required to plead answer or demur to said bill of complaint by the 11th day of January, 1942, or within thirty days thereafter a decree pro confesso may be taken against you. Dated this 8th day of December, 1942.

GLADYS CLARK, Register.

WEEKLY PROGRAM

THURSDAY—LAST DAY

"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"

Walter Pidgeon - Maureen O'Hara

"Voted the best picture of the year."

Admission 10c and 25c

FRIDAY—Double Feature

"NEVER GIVE A Sucker AN EVEN BREAK"

—Starring—

W. C. FIELDS

Western and Serial

Admission 10c and 25c

SATURDAY ALL DAY

"COWBOY SERENADE"

—Featuring—

Gene Autrey and Frog Chap. 2 Serial and Comedy

Admission 10c and 25c

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

"BEYOND THE BLUE HORIZON"

Dorothy Lamour and Richard Denning

"A technical picture of the jungle."

Admission 10c and 25c

TUESDAY ONLY—Bargain Day

"I WAS FRAMED"

All Seats 11c

WEDNESDAY - THURSDAY

"PLAYMATES"

—Starring—

"Kay Kayser and His Orchestra."

THE ELBA THEATRE

Worm-Eater

By VIVIAN HAYES

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

FROM the moment Lucia Furbush married Alan Cartwright, Alan had made a determined effort to induce Lucia to "live down" the Furbushes, and "live up" to the Cartwrights. Not that the Furbushes were not enough people, but they were a red-blooded lot, and the Cartwrights were a very high-spirited lot.

Lucia went Cartwright to a gratifying extent, but at the birth of her son she reverted to Furbush enough to insist upon the baby's being christened John Furbush Jr., thus perpetuating the name of his maternal grandfather.

When Alan Cartwright died a few years later, Ralph remarked that it was a mercy he was taken before he'd had a chance to run through all the money Lucia's father had left her. They added that it was a pity she hadn't married Jack Ward, instead of Alan, who Lucia thought so, too.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. Tucker, an old neighbor, "to think that Lucia's uncle Dan Furbush is a rich man, too. If only he and Lucia's father had been in the same line of business, they could have made a fortune together."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

No sign of an address, and the postmark so blurred no one could make it out. Lucia's father allowed Dan had left out the address and she could see if his gold mine was enough to trace him from the postmark. Dan was a great admirer of gold and that's why he'd written John slung at him him some of his never wrote again, and here's Lucia, a widow, with precious little cash, yet having to keep up appearances, as befitting a Cartwright. With Dan could see how much John Jr. resembles him—the split lip!

The "split lip" image was at that moment sprang suddenly across the ancestral door steps.

"Aw, my," he wailed, "I tell ya I GOTTER be in the circus over at Simpy's barn. I'm one of the freaks. They can't give a sidestroke without me. I gotta—"

"That will do," interrupted the departing Mrs. Cartwright with finality, "remember, you are not to leave the yard."

Upon her return late that afternoon, Mrs. Cartwright became conscious of a raucous voice in the side yard.

A clothes-line had been strung across the yard. From it fluttered lurid sidestroke banners.

Upon a shaky "balloony" stand, Simpy, in his father's tuxedo, was presiding through a megaphone. "Step up closer, laydeez and gentlemen."

In addition to the children the free show had attracted one grown-up, a big, bronzed man, who leaned against an apple-tree, grinning broadly.

"Now, lay-deez and gentlemen," intoned Simpy, "I'll next introduce to you Moxie, the perforator Tatosky, the celebrated, tattooed worm-eater from the jungles of the Amazon RIV-ah-Bobby, cut leani'-against this platform—Perforator Tatosky, lay-deez and gentlemen, eat nothing but WORMS—wringing, twisting, squirming WORMS!" And to prove it to you, Simpy, lay-deez and gentlemen, Perforator Tatosky will post-TIVE-ly perform for your amusement.

A joint-clothed figure scrambled onto the stage. His blackened body was lavishly adorned with vivid splashes of paint. Chanting an incantation the "perforator" threw back the lid of a lequer jewel-box.

The black fingers drew out a long, twisting worm. The Amazonian tilted back his head, opened his mouth and let the audience's very eyes, did, all too truly, swallow it!

Simultaneously she returned to Mrs. Cartwright's paled limbs. Screaming she ran toward the platform. It collapsed with a crash.

A strong hand gripped her shoulder. "Keep your shirt on, Lucia," chuckled the big man, kissing her squarely on the cheek. "A nice way to greet your Uncle Dan! Well, Lucia, I said John Furbush ain't done it! The sins of the granddads, there, eh, Lucia? Ho! Ho! That kid's a real boy, thank the Lord. Shake, Partner! How'd you and your Ma like to make me a visit out to my ranch?"

That night a familiar cat-call summoned Simpy to his bedroom window.

"Hey, Simpy," called a guarded voice, "you c'n spend the rest of vacation with me on my Uncle Dan's ranch. If ya folks will let ya."

"Say, Simpy," the voice became a cautious whisper, "don't ever tell my Uncle Dan that the worm I ate was only a stretched-out piece of choco'li caramel."

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Worm-Eater

By VIVIAN HAYES

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

FROM the moment Lucia Furbush married Alan Cartwright, Alan had made a determined effort to induce Lucia to "live down" the Furbushes, and "live up" to the Cartwrights. Not that the Furbushes were not enough people, but they were a red-blooded lot, and the Cartwrights were a very high-spirited lot.

Lucia went Cartwright to a gratifying extent, but at the birth of her son she reverted to Furbush enough to insist upon the baby's being christened John Furbush Jr., thus perpetuating the name of his maternal grandfather.

When Alan Cartwright died a few years later, Ralph remarked that it was a mercy he was taken before he'd had a chance to run through all the money Lucia's father had left her. They added that it was a pity she hadn't married Jack Ward, instead of Alan, who Lucia thought so, too.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. Tucker, an old neighbor, "to think that Lucia's uncle Dan Furbush is a rich man, too. If only he and Lucia's father had been in the same line of business, they could have made a fortune together."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

No sign of an address, and the postmark so blurred no one could make it out. Lucia's father allowed Dan had left out the address and she could see if his gold mine was enough to trace him from the postmark. Dan was a great admirer of gold and that's why he'd written John slung at him him some of his never wrote again, and here's Lucia, a widow, with precious little cash, yet having to keep up appearances, as befitting a Cartwright. With Dan could see how much John Jr. resembles him—the split lip!

The "split lip" image was at that moment sprang suddenly across the ancestral door steps.

"Aw, my," he wailed, "I tell ya I GOTTER be in the circus over at Simpy's barn. I'm one of the freaks. They can't give a sidestroke without me. I gotta—"

"That will do," interrupted the departing Mrs. Cartwright with finality, "remember, you are not to leave the yard."

Upon her return late that afternoon, Mrs. Cartwright became conscious of a raucous voice in the side yard.

A clothes-line had been strung across the yard. From it fluttered lurid sidestroke banners.

Upon a shaky "balloony" stand, Simpy, in his father's tuxedo, was presiding through a megaphone. "Step up closer, laydeez and gentlemen."

In addition to the children the free show had attracted one grown-up, a big, bronzed man, who leaned against an apple-tree, grinning broadly.

"Now, lay-deez and gentlemen," intoned Simpy, "I'll next introduce to you Moxie, the perforator Tatosky, the celebrated, tattooed worm-eater from the jungles of the Amazon RIV-ah-Bobby, cut leani'-against this platform—Perforator Tatosky, lay-deez and gentlemen, eat nothing but WORMS—wringing, twisting, squirming WORMS!" And to prove it to you, Simpy, lay-deez and gentlemen, Perforator Tatosky will post-TIVE-ly perform for your amusement.

A joint-clothed figure scrambled onto the stage. His blackened body was lavishly adorned with vivid splashes of paint. Chanting an incantation the "perforator" threw back the lid of a lequer jewel-box.

The black fingers drew out a long, twisting worm. The Amazonian tilted back his head, opened his mouth and let the audience's very eyes, did, all too truly, swallow it!

Simultaneously she returned to Mrs. Cartwright's paled limbs. Screaming she ran toward the platform. It collapsed with a crash.

A strong hand gripped her shoulder. "Keep your shirt on, Lucia," chuckled the big man, kissing her squarely on the cheek. "A nice way to greet your Uncle Dan! Well, Lucia, I said John Furbush ain't done it! The sins of the granddads, there, eh, Lucia? Ho! Ho! That kid's a real boy, thank the Lord. Shake, Partner! How'd you and your Ma like to make me a visit out to my ranch?"

That night a familiar cat-call summoned Simpy to his bedroom window.

"Hey, Simpy," called a guarded voice, "you c'n spend the rest of vacation with me on my Uncle Dan's ranch. If ya folks will let ya."

"Say, Simpy," the voice became a cautious whisper, "don't ever tell my Uncle Dan that the worm I ate was only a stretched-out piece of choco'li caramel."

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Worm-Eater

By VIVIAN HAYES

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

FROM the moment Lucia Furbush married Alan Cartwright, Alan had made a determined effort to induce Lucia to "live down" the Furbushes, and "live up" to the Cartwrights. Not that the Furbushes were not enough people, but they were a red-blooded lot, and the Cartwrights were a very high-spirited lot.

Lucia went Cartwright to a gratifying extent, but at the birth of her son she reverted to Furbush enough to insist upon the baby's being christened John Furbush Jr., thus perpetuating the name of his maternal grandfather.

When Alan Cartwright died a few years later, Ralph remarked that it was a mercy he was taken before he'd had a chance to run through all the money Lucia's father had left her. They added that it was a pity she hadn't married Jack Ward, instead of Alan, who Lucia thought so, too.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. Tucker, an old neighbor, "to think that Lucia's uncle Dan Furbush is a rich man, too. If only he and Lucia's father had been in the same line of business, they could have made a fortune together."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

No sign of an address, and the postmark so blurred no one could make it out. Lucia's father allowed Dan had left out the address and she could see if his gold mine was enough to trace him from the postmark. Dan was a great admirer of gold and that's why he'd written John slung at him him some of his never wrote again, and here's Lucia, a widow, with precious little cash, yet having to keep up appearances, as befitting a Cartwright. With Dan could see how much John Jr. resembles him—the split lip!

The "split lip" image was at that moment sprang suddenly across the ancestral door steps.

"Aw, my," he wailed, "I tell ya I GOTTER be in the circus over at Simpy's barn. I'm one of the freaks. They can't give a sidestroke without me. I gotta—"

"That will do," interrupted the departing Mrs. Cartwright with finality, "remember, you are not to leave the yard."

Upon her return late that afternoon, Mrs. Cartwright became conscious of a raucous voice in the side yard.

A clothes-line had been strung across the yard. From it fluttered lurid sidestroke banners.

Upon a shaky "balloony" stand, Simpy, in his father's tuxedo, was presiding through a megaphone. "Step up closer, laydeez and gentlemen."

In addition to the children the free show had attracted one grown-up, a big, bronzed man, who leaned against an apple-tree, grinning broadly.

"Now, lay-deez and gentlemen," intoned Simpy, "I'll next introduce to you Moxie, the perforator Tatosky, the celebrated, tattooed worm-eater from the jungles of the Amazon RIV-ah-Bobby, cut leani'-against this platform—Perforator Tatosky, lay-deez and gentlemen, eat nothing but WORMS—wringing, twisting, squirming WORMS!" And to prove it to you, Simpy, lay-deez and gentlemen, Perforator Tatosky will post-TIVE-ly perform for your amusement.

A joint-clothed figure scrambled onto the stage. His blackened body was lavishly adorned with vivid splashes of paint. Chanting an incantation the "perforator" threw back the lid of a lequer jewel-box.

The black fingers drew out a long, twisting worm. The Amazonian tilted back his head, opened his mouth and let the audience's very eyes, did, all too truly, swallow it!

Simultaneously she returned to Mrs. Cartwright's paled limbs. Screaming she ran toward the platform. It collapsed with a crash.

A strong hand gripped her shoulder. "Keep your shirt on, Lucia," chuckled the big man, kissing her squarely on the cheek. "A nice way to greet your Uncle Dan! Well, Lucia, I said John Furbush ain't done it! The sins of the granddads, there, eh, Lucia? Ho! Ho! That kid's a real boy, thank the Lord. Shake, Partner! How'd you and your Ma like to make me a visit out to my ranch?"

That night a familiar cat-call summoned Simpy to his bedroom window.

"Hey, Simpy," called a guarded voice, "you c'n spend the rest of vacation with me on my Uncle Dan's ranch. If ya folks will let ya."

"Say, Simpy," the voice became a cautious whisper, "don't ever tell my Uncle Dan that the worm I ate was only a stretched-out piece of choco'li caramel."

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Worm-Eater

By VIVIAN HAYES

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

FROM the moment Lucia Furbush married Alan Cartwright, Alan had made a determined effort to induce Lucia to "live down" the Furbushes, and "live up" to the Cartwrights. Not that the Furbushes were not enough people, but they were a red-blooded lot, and the Cartwrights were a very high-spirited lot.

Lucia went Cartwright to a gratifying extent, but at the birth of her son she reverted to Furbush enough to insist upon the baby's being christened John Furbush Jr., thus perpetuating the name of his maternal grandfather.

When Alan Cartwright died a few years later, Ralph remarked that it was a mercy he was taken before he'd had a chance to run through all the money Lucia's father had left her. They added that it was a pity she hadn't married Jack Ward, instead of Alan, who Lucia thought so, too.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. Tucker, an old neighbor, "to think that Lucia's uncle Dan Furbush is a rich man, too. If only he and Lucia's father had been in the same line of business, they could have made a fortune together."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

No sign of an address, and the postmark so blurred no one could make it out. Lucia's father allowed Dan had left out the address and she could see if his gold mine was enough to trace him from the postmark. Dan was a great admirer of gold and that's why he'd written John slung at him him some of his never wrote again, and here's Lucia, a widow, with precious little cash, yet having to keep up appearances, as befitting a Cartwright. With Dan could see how much John Jr. resembles him—the split lip!

The "split lip" image was at that moment sprang suddenly across the ancestral door steps.

"Aw, my," he wailed, "I tell ya I GOTTER be in the circus over at Simpy's barn. I'm one of the freaks. They can't give a sidestroke without me. I gotta—"

"That will do," interrupted the departing Mrs. Cartwright with finality, "remember, you are not to leave the yard."

Upon her return late that afternoon, Mrs. Cartwright became conscious of a raucous voice in the side yard.

A clothes-line had been strung across the yard. From it fluttered lurid sidestroke banners.

Upon a shaky "balloony" stand, Simpy, in his father's tuxedo, was presiding through a megaphone. "Step up closer, laydeez and gentlemen."

In addition to the children the free show had attracted one grown-up, a big, bronzed man, who leaned against an apple-tree, grinning broadly.

"Now, lay-deez and gentlemen," intoned Simpy, "I'll next introduce to you Moxie, the perforator Tatosky, the celebrated, tattooed worm-eater from the jungles of the Amazon RIV-ah-Bobby, cut leani'-against this platform—Perforator Tatosky, lay-deez and gentlemen, eat nothing but WORMS—wringing, twisting, squirming WORMS!" And to prove it to you, Simpy, lay-deez and gentlemen, Perforator Tatosky will post-TIVE-ly perform for your amusement.

A joint-clothed figure scrambled onto the stage. His blackened body was lavishly adorned with vivid splashes of paint. Chanting an incantation the "perforator" threw back the lid of a lequer jewel-box.

The black fingers drew out a long, twisting worm. The Amazonian tilted back his head, opened his mouth and let the audience's very eyes, did, all too truly, swallow it!

Simultaneously she returned to Mrs. Cartwright's paled limbs. Screaming she ran toward the platform. It collapsed with a crash.

A strong hand gripped her shoulder. "Keep your shirt on, Lucia," chuckled the big man, kissing her squarely on the cheek. "A nice way to greet your Uncle Dan! Well, Lucia, I said John Furbush ain't done it! The sins of the granddads, there, eh, Lucia? Ho! Ho! That kid's a real boy, thank the Lord. Shake, Partner! How'd you and your Ma like to make me a visit out to my ranch?"

That night a familiar cat-call summoned Simpy to his bedroom window.

"Hey, Simpy," called a guarded voice, "you c'n spend the rest of vacation with me on my Uncle Dan's ranch. If ya folks will let ya."

"Say, Simpy," the voice became a cautious whisper, "don't ever tell my Uncle Dan that the worm I ate was only a stretched-out piece of choco'li caramel."

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Worm-Eater

By VIVIAN HAYES

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

FROM the moment Lucia Furbush married Alan Cartwright, Alan had made a determined effort to induce Lucia to "live down" the Furbushes, and "live up" to the Cartwrights. Not that the Furbushes were not enough people, but they were a red-blooded lot, and the Cartwrights were a very high-spirited lot.

Lucia went Cartwright to a gratifying extent, but at the birth of her son she reverted to Furbush enough to insist upon the baby's being christened John Furbush Jr., thus perpetuating the name of his maternal grandfather.

When Alan Cartwright died a few years later, Ralph remarked that it was a mercy he was taken before he'd had a chance to run through all the money Lucia's father had left her. They added that it was a pity she hadn't married Jack Ward, instead of Alan, who Lucia thought so, too.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. Tucker, an old neighbor, "to think that Lucia's uncle Dan Furbush is a rich man, too. If only he and Lucia's father had been in the same line of business, they could have made a fortune together."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

He wrote five years later, just before Lucia's father died, and he was right. John, there really was gold in that hole in the ground. John Furbush called Dan a worm for being talked into buying a gold mine. Dan said to John, "I'll never forgive you 'til you eat your words. I'm going to make a fortune out of this mine."

No sign of an address, and the postmark so blurred no one could make it out. Lucia's father allowed Dan had left out the address and she could see if his gold mine was enough to trace him from the postmark. Dan was a great admirer of gold and that's why he'd written John slung at him him some of his never wrote again, and here's Lucia, a widow, with precious little cash, yet having to keep up appearances, as befitting a Cartwright. With Dan could see how much John Jr. resembles him—the split lip!

The "split lip" image was at that moment sprang suddenly across the ancestral door steps.

"Aw, my," he wailed, "I tell ya I GOTTER be in the circus over at Simpy's barn. I'm one of the freaks. They can't give a sidestroke without me. I gotta—"

"That will do," interrupted the departing Mrs. Cartwright with finality, "remember, you are not to leave the yard."

Upon her return late that afternoon, Mrs. Cartwright became conscious of a raucous voice in the side yard.

A clothes-line had been strung across the yard. From it fluttered lurid sidestroke banners.

Upon a shaky "balloony" stand, Simpy, in his father's tuxedo, was presiding through a megaphone. "Step up closer, laydeez and gentlemen."

In addition to the children the free show had attracted one grown-up, a big, bronzed man, who leaned against an apple-tree, grinning broadly.

"Now, lay-deez and gentlemen," intoned Simpy, "I'll next introduce to you Moxie, the perforator Tatosky, the celebrated, tattooed worm-eater from the jungles of the Amazon RIV-ah-Bobby, cut leani'-against this platform—Perforator Tatosky, lay-deez and gentlemen, eat nothing but WORMS—wringing, twisting, squirming WORMS!" And to prove it to you, Simpy, lay-deez and gentlemen, Perforator Tatosky will post-TIVE-ly perform for your amusement.

A joint-clothed figure scrambled onto the stage. His blackened body was lavishly adorned with vivid splashes of paint. Chanting an incantation the "perforator" threw back the lid of a lequer jewel-box.

The black fingers drew out a long, twisting worm. The Amazonian tilted back his head, opened his mouth and let the audience's very eyes, did, all too truly, swallow it!

Simultaneously she returned to Mrs. Cartwright's paled limbs. Screaming she ran toward the platform. It collapsed with a crash.

A strong hand gripped her shoulder. "Keep your shirt on, Lucia," chuckled the big man, kissing her squarely on the cheek. "A nice way to greet your Uncle Dan!

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Published Every Thursday Morning
R. C. Bryan — Owner-Publisher

Entered as second class matter
July 18, 1905, at the Postoffice
at Elba, Alabama, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE
One Year $1.50
Six Months .75
CASH IN ADVANCE

IN MEMORY OF ALFRED
GROOMS

New Brockton, Ala.—Mr.
Alfred Grooms, age 72, died
at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Matthews, after an illness of four days. He had been a resident of the Goodman community for a number of years. He was well known and loved by all, and had a host of friends
who are grieved at his death.
His wife and three children
preceded him to the grave.
He leaves to mourn his death three daughters: Mrs.
Louie Wilkins of Elba; Mrs.
C. H. Matthews, of New Brockton; Mrs. J. F. Bow-
doin of Samson; three sons:
Grover T. Grooms of Talla-degua; J. E. Grooms of Elba;
Fred Grooms of Laurel Hill,
Fla., and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The funeral was held at two o'clock Monday afternoon, December 7, from the Goodman Baptist church,
with Rev. J. E. Plant officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery. Active pallbearers were: J. S. Andrews, R.
G. Andrews, Roy Grimes,
Warren Moore, D. D. Johnson, Otis Jones.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our
thanks to the friends of the Goodman and surrounding communities, for their sympathy and kindness during
the illness and death of our father and grand father,
Mr. Alfred Grooms. May
God's richest blessings be
with each of you.

His Children and Grand Children.

A cabinet or closet for brooms, mops, and cleaning
equipment saves the home
maker from having to look
behind every door to find the broom or other cleaning equipment.

BEFORE YOU
CHOOSE

Before you choose a funeral service—ascertain these facts:
1. Total cost—including everything necessary.
2. Quality and timeliness of equipment recommended.
3. Reputation of the mortician.
Our policy in the first two facts is always available to the public—our reputation is an open book
throughout the community.

BONNEAU-JETER
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
ELBA AND BRANTLEY

DIRECTORS

A Christmas Present
WORTH MILLIONS!

Father, Mother, Friend: Give that boy or girl a business education so they may serve their country now and assure him or her a good permanent position after the war is won.

No other gift could be so timely or worth
quite so much. Insure them against unemployment after the war.

Send coupon below for special Christmas offer.

Campbell Business College

W. H. Saunders, Manager, Dothan, Ala.

Name _____ Address _____

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

American flyers with the RAF are rushing demolition bombs on Nazi cities today. These instruments of destruction so important in raising Nazi war plants, interrupting railroad transportation and other war activities, range now into several tons.

The 500-pound demolition Bomb is one of the lighter ones. Bands are attached to facilitate handling and the fins are not attached until the Bomb reaches the airfield, because bending would injure accuracy.
They cost up to $500. Your purchase of War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan will help provide Bombs for our airman. Let's
"Top that Ten Percent."

U.S. Treasury Department

INCOME

Cash income from farm
marketings increased slightly more than usual from August to September, and totalled $1,707,000,000, as compared with $1,286,000,- 000 in September of last year.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO SELL LAND.

The State of Alabama, Coffee County. In Probate Court of said County; Estate of J. B.
Nelson, Deceased; December
5, 1942.

On December 5, 1942, came J.
J. Nelson, Administrator of the estate of said decedent, and filed his petition in due form and under oath praying an order for the sale
of certain lands described therein,
and belongs to said estate for the purpose of paying debts of said estate and for division among the joint owners of said estate of
J. B. Nelson, deceased, and John
C. Nelson, deceased.

It is ordered that the 4th day
of January, 1943, be appointed
the day for hearing the said petition, at which time all parties in interest can appear and contest
the same, if they think proper.

J. W. BROCK,
d17-31-jac Judge of Probate.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

State of Alabama, Coffee County.
Whereas, Claude Bowdoin and Weaver Bowdoin, executed to J.
F. Bowdoin on, to-wit, November 10, 1936, a mortgage upon the real estate hereinafter described to secure an indebtedness described therein, and

Whereas, default has been made by grantees in payment of the indebtedness secured by said mortgage and in the performance of the terms of said mortgage;

Now, therefore, J. F. Bowdoin, mortgagee and owner of said note
and mortgage, will sell, under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, between 11 o'clock, A. M., and 4 o'clock, P.
M., on the 6th day of January, 1943, at auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door of Coffee County, in the town of Elba, Alabama,
the real estate embraced in said
mortgage described substantially
as follows:

The W 1/2 of SW 1/4, Section 20;
the W 1/2 of NW 1/4, Section 20;
the N 1/2 of SW 1/4, Section 20;
the NE 1/4 of NE 1/4, Section 20,
all in Township 4, Range 20, Coffee County, Alabama.

Said sale will be made for the purpose of realizing the mortgage debt, together with all expenses of this sale, including a reasonable attorney's fee.

J. F. BOWDOIN,
d10-31-jcf Mortgagee.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON

Lesson for December 20

Lesson subject and Scripture texts assigned and copyrighted by International Bible Society.

THE BIRTH OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:8-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people
from their sins.—Matthew 1:21.

How shall we keep Christmas this year of our Lord 1942? That is a question which is pressed home to all of us by trying circumstances,
growing wickedness—yes, by countless things which try to tell us that there just is not any use to try to keep Christmas as usual this year.

Well, then let's make it unusual.
Let's have it more genuinely Christian than ever. That's what we
and this weary world need.

The way to do it is to make this more than ever a Christmas centering in Christ. Doing that will mean that this year we will

I. Keep Christmas With Joy (vv.
8-10).

"Merry Christmas" may sound a little flat and empty this year, for
there may be little to create merriment.
"We wish you happiness at Christmas!" will probably not fit
very well, because happiness depends on what happens—and a good many of the wrong kind of things
have happened to most (perhaps all)
of us.

But joy—that is quite another matter. We do not tire of the reminder that joy is something which God
gives in the heart and which goes
so far down into the depths of man's soul that the surface tempests of life cannot disturb it. Remember Paul who was "rejoicing" on the surface "yet ever rejoicing" in his heart (I Cor. 6:10).

The ground of our Christmas joy
is the good tidings of Christ's coming. That has always been the real heart of Christmas joy, but often it has been obscured by tinsel and trimmings. This year let's get back to essentials.

And let it be said that this does not mean that we are going to omit
all the precious little customs and pleasantries which have had their innocent part in making this a holiday season. No indeed; let us have them all, or as many as we can,
but make the heart of it all Christian joy.

II. Keep Christmas With Assurance (vv. 11-14).

With so many other things (many of which we had foolishly regarded as permanent and sure) falling us,
it is a delight to have something
sure to tie to, and we have it this Christmas. Christ the Saviour has come!

Not only do we know that He was born, to these many years ago, as the babe in the manger in Bethlehem town, but we know that He still lives! He was born, died for our sins, was raised for our justification,
ever lives to intercede for us, and He is one day to come again. The evidence for all this is plentiful
and satisfying, and gives us abundant ground for the keeping of Christmas even this year in assurance.

This thought leads us to our third point. We have joy and assurance in order that we may

III. Keep Christmas As a Testimony (vv. 15-20).

Having found the Christ, the shepherds "made known abroad" (v. 17)
the good news. They returned
"glorifying and praising God" (v.
20).

They, too, lived in a time of great darkness. They were part of the people of whom the prophet said:
"The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they
that dwelt in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined" (Isa. 9:2). That light was Christ, the "light of the world."

There could be no more appropriate time to testify to the world,
whose lights have failed, that we keep Christmas because it tells of the coming into this world of the unfailing Light, the One who said
of Himself: "I am the light of the world" (John 9:5).

Some day, if Christ should tarry,
the world will return to a measure of sanity. One of the realities it will face is that the temporal and material is transitory, that a dependence on them is certain to disappoint. The spiritual and the eternal will then have new opportunity to commend itself to the hearts of men. That is why we want to keep Christmas this year as a ringing joyous testimony of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

The writer of these notes does not often hear from his readers, scattered all over the continent (yes,
and in foreign lands), but he counts
them all as his friends. He prays for them, and counts it a joy to serve them through these lessons.
So, since they are his friends, he says to every one of them who sees these lines: "May God make this a blessed Christmas. Through the clouds of trying circumstances may you see His face. Above the noisy clamor of this world may you hear the angel's song. And may the joy of the Lord fill your soul this Christmas Day!"

THE ELBA CLIPPER

Thursday, Dec. 17, 1942

Important Notice To All Subscribers!

Beginning with the New Year, Friday, January 1,
1943, all subscriptions to The Clipper will be strictly

CASH-IN-ADVANCE

There will be no exceptions to this rule and all delinquents will be dropped from our mailing list on that date. For the past several years we have been carrying names on our list from a few weeks to several months after the expiration date of the subscription.
Some of these have promised to pay at specified times
but have not done so. Many say they forget about it, although we run some kind of reminder in practically every issue of the paper.

In the first place it is a violation of Postal Laws for us to continue mailing papers which have not been paid for in advance. We do not wish to continue violating the regulations under which our papers are admitted to the mail.

In the second place our subscribers, or at least a majority of them, are in just about as good financial condition as we are and can pay for the paper at the expiration date just as well as waiting several weeks
or probably several months.

Our supply houses do not wait on us for payment of our bills. If we continue to get paper on which to print The Clipper every week we have to pay for it.
If continue to use electric current to operate our machines, we have to pay for that promptly. If we continue to eat the grocer and butcher expect to get pay for what we get from them.

If you want The Clipper to come to you after the first day of January, 1943, you must pay what you are due at that time and then pay for it in advance. Beginning with the new year our mailing list will be corrected every month, and all subscribers who have not paid for the paper in advance will be dropped from our mailing list.

The small label on the upper right hand corner
of your paper on which your name is printed shows
when your time is out or will be out. If you want the paper to keep coming, watch that label and before the expiration date, come in and renew.

THIS NOTICE IS BEING RUN IN ADVANCE
SO THAT EVERY ONE MAY KNOW THAT THE
CASH-IN-ADVANCE RULE WILL BE STRICTLY
CONFORMED WITH BEGINNING ON JANUARY
FIRST. IF YOU WANT THE PAPER AFTER THAT DATE COME IN NOW AND HAVE YOUR SUBSCRIPTION MARKED AHEAD.

THE ELBA CLIPPER

R. C. BRYAN, EDITOR - OWNER

GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 8,541 bales of cotton were ginned in Coffee County
from the crop of 1942 prior to December 1, 1942, as compared with 11,584 bales
for the crop of 1941.

This report was released
December 13 by Special Agent, Jesse L. Hildreth,

BUY WAR BONDS

Alabama farmers who
have broken all records in food production for the war effort are now receiving the proceeds from their bumper crops and good returns from livestock. With this flow of cash farmers have the opportunity to make a further investment in freedom by buying War Savings Bonds.

When tea joins coffee on the list of necessities, housewives may brew a tasty cup
from persimmon leaves, a concoction which nutrition-
ists describe as being high
in Vitamin C.

DR. JOSEPH CARROLL
Optometric Eye Specialist
Carroll Building
TROY, ALABAMA
Ethical Eye Examinations
Glasses Prescribed and Fitted

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Circuit Court of Coffee County,
Alabama, In Equity, Elba, Alabama. Nellie Paramore, Complainant, VS Grady Paramore, Respondent.

You will take notice that Nellie Paramore has filed bill of complaint against you in this Court; you are hereby notified to appear, plead,
answer or demur to said bill within
the time allowed by law or its allegations will be taken as confessed.

This the 9th day of Dec. 1942.
GLADYS CLARK,
d-10-31-jcf Register.

The Clipper's phone is No. 29.

THE ELBA CLIPPER

VERDIS O. COOK WRITES FROM NAVY

To Readers of The Clipper:

I had the great pleasure a few months ago of writing
you a letter through your paper. I hope you liked it and will take the time to read this one.

I don't have so much to say in my own words but am going to try to explain the best I can a great talk that was made by one of our instructors a few days ago,
which I think hit the nail on the head. This instructor has had several years of naval shore and sea duty as a radio operator and knows
the responsibility of the men
of war.

First of all the people at home as well as the men in service must keep up their morale, for the people at home are the ones that are putting out the money to win this war. The men in service are the ones that are putting them to good use.

I have heard it said more than once, "Why do we have to go through so much
schooling to get out there and fight?" That is because there is more to winning a war than to just get out there and fire a gun. There are things that a man must be trained for, to do his part. For instance in my field—"Radio Communication"—
you couldn't pick a man off
the street and put him
down to send a radio message or to receive one.

That man could not get out
there and by the motion of the hands and arm send a message to a person several hundred miles away from
him. That is what schooling is for—to get him prepared for his duty so he can do it in the most secure way in the least possible time.

The men who are using the tools that you are making
have a great responsibility.
They are trained to use those tools with the greatest of skill, to put them to work
when needed and where needed.

Now back to some of the words of the instructor:
You may think that it is hard at times. You may often wonder how long a man can do his duty without much rest and the things that he is used to having in peace
time. But stop for one moment and think what you are up against; what you are sent to do and what you are fighting for, and you can last
a long time.

We, the people of the U.
S., at home and abroad, are fighting for freedom and liberty of our loved ones, and the right to live as free Americans should live; and as long as we keep our chins up and face the front we'll never be turned back. I think this song has a great meaning for all of us: "Pass the
FINAL SETTLEMENT NOTICE

In the matter of the Estate of John M. Bonneau, deceased;
Mrs. Mamie Bonneau, Executrix. In the Probate Court of Coffee County, Alabama, Elba
Division.

This day came Mrs. Mamie Bon-
neau, executrix of the estate of John M. Bonneau, deceased, and filed in Court her accounts and vouchers for a final settlement of said estate; and the 18 day of January, 1943, having been appointed by the Court for examining, auditing and stating the same, notice is hereby given to all parties
interested to appear on said day
and contest the same, if they think proper.

Done this 15 day of December, 1942.

J. W. BROCK,
d17-j7 Probate Judge.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Circuit Court of Coffee
County, Alabama, In Equity, at Elba. Charles Allen Snell, Complainant, VS Bessie Mae
Snell, Respondent.

Take notice that there has been a bill of complaint filed in this Court against you by Charles Allen Snell in which he seeks a divorce. You are required to plead answer or demur to said bill of complaint by the 11th day of January, 1943, or within thirty days thereafter a decree pro-
conesso may be taken against you.

Dated this 8th day of December, 1942.

GLADYS CLARK,
d 10-17 gc-pd Register.

Ammunition, and We'll All Be Free."

Now as I close, let me
leave this thought with you,
as long as we have the faith
to push forward and never turn back, we'll never be defeated."

Verdis O. Cook,
Radioman Second Class,
Sub Chaser Tr. Center,
Room 71, Everglade Hotel
Miami, Florida.

(Mr. Cook is a former resident of Elba, the son of Mr.
and Mrs. L. C. Cook. He has been in training in Los Angeles, California, and was transferred to Miami about
the second week in Nov.

Now that crop harvesting
is over it is a good time to make arrangements for spreading lime.

Massachusetts car owners
are now permitted to collect
fees for transporting "share
the ride" passengers.

Lil' Abner says—

CONSCIOUS
effort, combined with moderate cost, is appreciated by the public.

Gawd! There ain't much time
before New Year's—and we gotta
sign up for War Bonds with 10%
of our pay by that time!

Go to Church Sunday!

AT FIRST
SIGN OF A
COLD
USE
666
066 TABLETS. SAVE. NOSE DROPS

Hayes Funeral Home
Hearse and Ambulance Service
Phones - 21 and 149

Of every seven and one half dozen eggs produced in the United States this year,
at least one dozen will be dried to supply lease lend requirements.

Bright Stars
For Her Christmas

Shimmering Rayon Satin, Beautifully Quilted
Floral Print Robe

Cozy warm, yet pretty too, for the sentimental lady with the practical side! $6.98

A riot of lovely flowers frolic on the gleaming white background of this new full skirted robe that has a wonderful lining in a heart-warming shade of cerise
red. Her favorite wrap-around style, big deep pocket

Lacy Bedjacket Lace Trim Gown

A luxurious gift for a lovely lovely lady $1.98

Rich rayon satin cobwebby
lace $2.98

Dainty embroidery, pretty lace
on rayon satin made with tiny stitches. Ribbon tie at neck.

Even full shoulder straps of the dainty corded lace. Lovely fitted style, full 54 inches long.

Comfy Slippers New Rayon Hose

Rayon Crepe, rich velvet, trim
Highly twisted for sheer Plattery! $1.49 98c

Cozy, comfy D'Orsay style has cuban heel, leather sole. Put a pair under the tree for her!

Thrill her with a gift of loveliness! Sheer, 75 center hose, in slimming, flattering shades.

Luxurious Slip Handkerchiefs

Of gleaming rayon satin
Pure white lawn in gift box
$1.98 3 for 59c

Lavish—with lace slip in the Crisp white squares with exquisite lace and gaudy corn-joust straps, tea rose color, etc., or embroidered accents.

You'll Smile,
Too---
If You Let Us Do Your Washing!

SAVE TIME! SAVE MONEY!
SAVE CLOTHES!

Send or bring—or call us for pick up—your washing, as so many other wise housewives are doing. You, too, will discover your clothes wear longer, and smell sweeter, when we do them.
Our service is prompt and our charges reasonable.

White Cleaners and Laundry

Elba, Alabama Phone 43 James Wise, Owner

"I was Lucky!"

Lucky because I just stopped one in the leg.
But Smith and Weinberg and Farley . . .
they're dead. Dead because we didn't have one more grenade to throw!"

That's an American soldier speaking. Speaking your language.

He's asking for more guns to fight with. More tanks, more planes, more grenades to crack down on the enemy with.

Well, let's give them to him!

Let's loan 10% of our pay to the Government. Let's put it in War Bonds. Let's loan Uncle Sam the money to make more tools
of war.

It's a loan because the money you put into War Bonds now comes back to you in ten years with a healthy bonus of good interest!

For every $3 you lay aside for War Bonds
pays back $4!

So put at least 10%—not 6%, or 7%, or 8%,
but 10% of your pay to work killing Japs
and Nazis—and making money for you at the same time! Sign up in the Payroll Savings Plan today!

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO:

If you are . . .

1. Already eating aside 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan—boost that 10% if you can.

BLEED THROUGH